Workshop Descriptions (in Session Order)

Culturally Relevant Pedagogy in the Music Classroom

Dr. Suzanne Hall
Temple University

Culturally relevant teaching refers to a teaching approach that emphasizes the "who" in teaching practice. One aspect of the approach is cultural competence. This session will discuss cultural competence in the music classroom. Attendees will learn strategies to create student-centered environments where cultural capital (past, present, and evolving) is acknowledged and valued within the music classroom. Additionally, examples of how cultural competence addresses social and emotional learning will be provided.

"Morning Stretch"

Wendy Keslick
In Harmony Wellspring

Emphasis on breath and movement. Wear comfortable clothes and bring a mat or a blanket.

Band Instrument Repair for the Busy Director

John Kirkner
Keystone Music Repair

Brush up on the basics of woodwind and brass repair and maintenance, presented in an easy-to-digest format with visuals, simple demonstrations, and electronic resources.

LGBTQ Issues in the Music Classroom: What Do We Need to Know?

Dr. M. Greg Martin
West Chester University

Session will delve into the increasingly difficult challenges faced by the music teacher navigating gender identity and LGBTQ student's needs.

Children's Literature in the Music Classroom: Learning Music Through Storytelling

Dr. Suzanne Hall
Temple University

The use of children's literature in the elementary music classroom not only promotes imaginative play but also contributes to exposure and involvement in the dramatic arts. Additionally, students garner a deeper level of comprehension of both the text and music when bringing stories to life. This session will demonstrate mini-lessons that use children's literature to teach music concepts including rhythm, melody, expression. Participants will create, connect, respond and perform on instruments to evoke characters, settings, plots and climaxes of a story and will also experience how children's literature and instrumental music can be an effective tool to teach music analysis.

Why Modern Band?

Scott Cullen
Octorara Area School District

An introduction to the Modern Band movement in our schools. How to make it a part of your music program, elementary through high school.

Mindfulness in Music Education

Dr. Angela Guerriero
West Chester University
Tempo! Music Therapy

In this session, participants will consider the need for recognizing and identifying appropriate mindfulness practices for music educators and for their students. Through discussion and experiential components, participants will reflect upon the how these practices impact their students, and ideas to incorporate some strategies in the music classroom.

Fests and Festivals: Join and Host!!!!

Kathleen Boyer
Springfield School District
Mark Sanford
Springfield School District
Mike Shoremount
West Chester Area School District

This session is for anyone who would like to attend a PMEA fest or festival and also hopefully one day host. General information will be given about having students attend a fest or festival and then we will break out into high school festivals and elementary and middle school fests.

“Chair Yoga”

Wendy Keslick
In Harmony Wellspring

Emphasis on breathing. Applicable to general music classes and all rehearsals.

Learner-Centered Strategies for Instrumental Music Classrooms

Dr. Adam Gumble
West Chester University

This session will provide instrumental music educators with effective learner-centered strategies that can be deployed in various instrumental music contexts found in public schools.

Authenticity, Diversity and Representation in Orchestral Programming/Rehearsal

Dr. César Leal
Gettysburg College-
Sunderman Conservatory of Music

This interactive session explores accessible and diverse repertoire from Latin America and proposes rehearsal techniques such as rhythmic embodiment to facilitate its acquisition and performance.

I'm in charge?!?

A Panel for Student and Cooperating Teachers

Dr. Erin Kauppila
Oxford Area School District

Spend some time with a panel of experienced Cooperating Teachers and Supervising Professors to find out how to get the very best from your student teaching experience. We will explore a variety of topics from communication to lesson planning to problem solving featuring panelists PMEA President Scott Cullen, Dr. Danielle Cullen, Kathleen Boyer, Maryellen Byrne and Dr. Marci Major. We also welcome new music educators who are just starting the journey as cooperating teachers.

A Multisensory Approach to Teaching Music to Students with IEPs: From Theory to Practice

West Chester University
Tempo! Music Therapy
Jodi Jianniney
Garnet Valley School District

This presentation will address considerations of the relationship between music and learning, and how the seven sensory domains may interact to pose challenges to the acquisition of music learning. Engaging in the music classroom and school musical performance may be challenging for some students with IEPs. These challenges may include difficulty processing the sensory stimuli involved in a musical performance, or feeling overwhelmed with anxiety or stage fright. A lesson plan structure providing as many access points into music learning as possible will be presented. With simple accommodations, these experiences may be made more accessible for students with special needs. Real life examples including videos will be shared, as well as insights on how to plan student performances.

Music Classroom Emotional First Aid

Dr. Lauren Ryals
West Chester University

Trauma-informed music education is an emerging research area receiving increased attention among music educators, collegiate music teacher educators, and researchers. We will begin by defining and examining current findings in trauma-informed music education research. We will also sample recent music education research based in student-center learning, social-emotional learning, teacher-student relationships, and caring learning environments. Current examples of trauma-informed music education in various music classroom settings will also be discussed. In the active portion of this session participants will learn about emotional first aid and participate in mental health activities for their music students and themselves. Participants will conclude by reflecting on their own lived experiences and honor their active role in their own mental health.

The Pennsylvania All-State Chorus:
Its History and Repertoire Since 1936

Dr. Ryan Kelly
West Chester University

Experience PA's choral history in this interactive session. Learn about the Pennsylvania All-State Chorus festival from its inception in 1936, get to know some of the conductors, listen to historical recordings, discover trends in programming, and learn about a long-forgotten District 12 conductor and composer. Attendees will receive a reading packet of music and sing through some permanently out-of-print repertoire popular in the festival's early years.

General Music Sharing Session

Oxford Area School District
Dr. Danielle Cullen
Downingtown Area School District

Let's come together to share great ideas or ask for advice in the world of General Music. This sharing session is open to all music educators K-12 or PCMEA members with an interest in learning more about General Music. Come prepared with topics to talk about or with your favorite lessons to share with the rest of the attendees.

Band Sharing Session

Dr. Steve Selfridge
Garnet Valley School District

Come together with your band colleagues and discuss all aspects of instrumental band music K-12.

Choral Sharing Session

Hannah Knauss
Downingtown Area School District

Attendees will come together to discuss and share tips and tricks for our choral classrooms and programs.

String Sharing Session: Focusing on Choosing Diverse Repertoire

Katrina Kelly
West Chester Area School District

Please join myself and your string colleagues for a sharing session about choosing great pieces of repertoire and ways to diversify your selections.
